HUGE STILL AND THREE MEN TAKEN IN HENRICO RAID.

Eleven 500 gallon fermenters, a two horse wagonload of liquor and a complete copper still of 250 gallons capacity, in full operation, were seized by members of the Henrico County police force, co-operating with the State Prohibition Department in a raid near the Gayton Coal mines; twelve miles from Richmond yesterday afternoon.

Using an alleged member of the operating crew he had surprised from ambush as a camouflage and shield against possible revolver fire from his confederates one of the raiding officers succeeded in getting within a few yards of the plant before the operators were aware of the officer's identity. Two of the crew said to have been operating the plant made an effort to escape and gave the officers a chase of several hundred yards through the brush and wood bordering the plant before they submitted to arrest under threat of the officers' guns.

REMANDED TO COUNTY JAIL.

Three men believed to be but the "tools" of the "higher-ups" in an alleged bootleggers and manufacturers "ring" said they were Luther Mann, Jr., Henry Crew, colored and Richard Spudisyan, colored, they were charged in warrants with operating the still and transporting liquor. In default of $1,000 bond the men were remanded to the County Jail for a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Puryear's court this morning.

The men are alleged to have confessed to police they were "hirelings" and received $2.50 a day for their services in operating the still. They said the plant was capable of three runs a day and that the output was more than fifty gallons per run.

According to the raiding party, the plant was one of the most complete ever seized here, and was equipped with "copper doubler," a process where by the liquor is twice refined. Several thousand gallons of mash and other supplies used in the manufacture of the product were found by the officers and piles of cordwood cut in four-foot lengths stacked about the plant gave evidence the still was operating at full capacity.

The raid occurred shortly after noon after the men had carefully maneuvered about the plant for strategic positions. While Officers Lawrence, Sadler and Dennis of the county police force were encircling the still from ambush Officer Crute of the Prohibition Department watched from concealment a colored man unload a two-horse wagon of liquor and secrete it in brush. He surprised the man and made him lead him to his alleged confederates' plant where on signal the county officers sprang from the woods and descended upon the camp.

A heavy truck was commandeered by the officers in bringing the plant to the city and considerable comment was elicited by citizens as they witnessed the still caravan and officers in motor cars guarding their "find" pass through the streets to the County Jail.
